Religion Studies Course Offerings

- REL 007 WHAT IS RELIGION? (4)
44664 PROF. MICHAEL RAPOSA T/R 7:55-9:10
The word "religion" is fairly recent in origin, its linguistic roots unclear, and the phenomena that it has been used to designate both vast and amorphous. This course explores some of the most prominent attempts to define "religion," definitions produced both by religious thinkers and by critics of religion. We will examine some of the methods used by scholars to study religion. Finally, we will ask how the meaning of the word may be shifting in a modern, secular age. (HU)
- REL 090-011 RELIGION AND CONTEMPORARY FICTION (4)
44707 PROF. BENJAMIN WRIGHT T/R 1:35-2:50
Religion has consistently been a fascination of fiction writers. One can look at the history of modern literature and find that religion has been something of a preoccupation. In this course, students look at religion through the lens of several contemporary novels. How do these authors picture religion? What kinds of religious issues do they take up? We will encounter visionary experiences, gender construction, the need to fill in the blanks, together with a bit of insanity and inscrutability. (HU, WRIT, First-Year Seminar)
- REL 090-012 RELIGION AND HIP HOP (4)
44714 PROF. MONICA MILLER M/W 12:10-1:25
"You in the presence of a King, scratch that, you in the presence of a God," raps Jay Z in the song "Crown." From humble beginnings to global ascendancy, hip hop culture relies on wide-ranging religious themes. Examining talk of devils, monsters, resurrection, gods, and even illuminati-styled suspicions of world domination, this course considers the "religious" dimensions of hip hop culture, and the decidedly "hip hop" expressions of religion, finding unlikely overlap between two of the world's most powerful forces. (HU, BUD, First-Year Seminar)
- REL 090-014 BUDDHISM, PSYCHOLOGY, AND MEDICINE (4)
43955 PROF. ANNABELLA PITKIN T/R 12:10-1:25
ASIA 090 (44064)–ETH 090 (44066)–HMS 090 (44065) (XLIST YB)
How have neuroscientists, Buddhists, and medical practitioners described what meditation does to the brain, mind and emotions? How have Buddhists described what enlightenment does to the mind and body? What are the historical relationships between Buddhism, medical practice, and psychology, in the US and in Asia? Students in this course explore these questions, by examining Buddhist philosophy, psychology, memoir, and art, together with recent research on how meditation and other practices affect brain function, emotional response, and other mental and physical processes. (HU, First-Year Seminar)

REL 090-016 RACE AND THE AMERICAN RELIGIOUS IMAGINATION (4)
44706 PROF. CHRISTOPHER DRISCOLL M/W 3:00-4:15

From family dinners to first dates, race and religion continue to be among America's most "impolite" topics. How and why did these prohibitions come about? Where did the interest in these topics begin? Who wins or loses from such conversations? And, just what are "race" and "religion?" Covering key thinkers and writings from the American Revolution to civil rights and scientific revolutions, this course explores the profound role race has played in the American religious imagination (HU, First-Year Seminar)

REL 095 IS GOD DEAD? PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE. (4)
43957 PROF. CHRISTOPHER DRISCOLL M/W 9:20-10:35
PHIL 095 (44660) (XLIST YC)

Is God Dead? Some people think so. Do you? Come decide for yourself. This course looks at the idea of god in Western philosophy and theology, with particular attention to death of god movement(s), and the changing shape of these movements in light of culture wars and identity politics. The course surveys key thinkers to ask questions about the origins, functions, and future of god and gods in the contemporary world. Posed as an ongoing question-Is god dead?-the course is for anyone interested in the idea of god past, present, future. (HU)

REL 096 RELIGION AND VIOLENCE (4)
44715 PROF. LLOYD STEFFEN T/R 10:45-12:00

In this course we will explore the relationship between religious ideology with acts of violence. By examining a wide range of different instances of religious violence among Christians, Jews and Muslims, along with their accompanying ideologies, we will consider the relationship between religious affiliation, communally shared modes of discourse, and violent conflict. (HU, BUD)

REL 097 RACE AND RELIGION – THE BASICS (4)
44705 PROF. MONICA MILLER M/W 1:35-2:50

Are race and religion two distinct aspects of social life? What is religious about race, and racialized about religion? This course brings together two seemingly "distinct topics" that have more in common than oft-assumed. By examining leading discourses on the topic through numerous "case studies" - this course considers the shared social and historical roots of both "religion" and "race" in a manner that is both accessible, diverse, and intersectional. We will consider the shared social, cultural, political, and historical roots of two of the world's most controversial topics. (HU, BUD)
